Ms. Pereira questioned the students about the benefits of working virtually. The students could relate with the situation and various pros were discussed such as autonomy and flexibility, recruitment and retention, tracking company performance and employee accountability, saves money, office space and its costs and fuel and energy costs.

The downsides of a virtual workspace were then discussed i.e. lack of human contact could cause decreased team spirit, trust and productivity, increased sensitivity to communication, interpersonal and cultural factors, lack of social interaction and creativity and potential employee burnout.

Ms. Pereira discussed how to manage a virtual workspace. Various factors that are conducive to working virtually were emphasized such as communication, transparency, training, inclusion, time zones and team culture. Certain etiquette to be kept in mind while working virtually were explained such as join early, cut noise, dress right, tidy workspace, clean wrap up and stay focused.

She then discussed about the future of working virtually. A video about metaverse was displayed to give a better understanding about the future of working virtually. The resource person also cited the example of the couple who got married in metaverse and the wedding was attended by over 3000 guests.

The session ended with the Vote of Thanks proposed by Ms. Ekta Parmekar, student of FY B.Com C.

The objective of the Webinar was to create awareness amongst the potential investors through the dissemination of knowledge on the fundamental terminologies and concepts related to the commodity derivatives markets. Ms. Sanchia Patricia Da Costa, a student of SY BBA(FS) B class, commenced the Webinar with a brief introduction followed by the welcome address by Dr. Rodney D'Silva, Vice-Principal, Ms. Sanchia introduced the Resource Persons of the Webinar. Resource Person Mr. Ratnesh Mishra is a Deputy Manager at NCDEX, Mumbai having a vast experience and expertise in Regulatory Compliance, Arbitration, Investor Grievance, Trading and Clearing Operation of Exchange, PMLA, KYC, Transaction Monitoring and other allied activities. Resource Person Ms. Nikita Nagdev is a Senior Executive with NCDEX, Mumbai. She is a finance and stock market enthusiast and an alumna of the BBA(Financial Services) Department of the College.

Mr. Mishra conducted the Webinar in two sessions. He commenced the first session by explaining the difference between stocks and derivatives. He briefed upon several terminologies related to the derivatives contracts like futures, forwards, options, swaps, long position, short position, spot contract, expiration, market maker, spread, etc. He elaborated on the origin and the status of the commodity derivatives market in India. He further explained the significance of an efficient commodity derivatives market that would play a crucial role in spurring the economic development in a rapidly flourishing agrarian economy like that of India. He also highlighted the key trends in the commodity markets that have been paramount in revolutionizing the commodity derivative markets in India.

During the second session, Mr. Mishra provided important insights on the NCDEX. He explained the NCDEX Commodity Index that is an equal-weighted spot price index of ten agricultural commodities. He highlighted the fact that the NCDEX Commodity Index is the first such index that has been launched in India. He elaborated on the NCDEX's 'Raison d' etre' that serves as an efficient platform for Price Discovery and Price Risk Management. He further stated that NCDEX offers a diverse range of products that open a plethora of opportunities to cater to the needs of various sets of participants in the agri-value chain. In his concluding remarks on the significance of NCDEX, he stressed that the NCDEX is a professionally managed online, multi-commodity exchange focusing on revolutionizing India's agricultural sector since it has been India's largest agricultural derivatives exchange with a market share of 75% in agricultural derivative contracts for the Financial Year ending March 2021. He ended the session by pointing out the prime training and developmental initiatives of the NCDEX.

Mr. Mishra responded to all the questions put forth by the participants. Ms. Sanchia Patricia Da Costa, a student of SY BBA(FS) B class was the compere for the Webinar while NCDEX, Mumbai hosted the same. Asst. Prof. Mayuresh Adsul, the in-charge faculty, proposed the Vote of Thanks. The College organized a workshop on “Measuring and Mapping Programme Outcomes and Course Outcomes” for the teaching faculty on 24th February, 2022 from 9.00-1.00 pm in offline mode in room no.206. The main objective of the workshop was to guide all the teachers to write CO’s of the respective courses and also to brief them about measurement and mapping of attainment of POs, PSOs and Cos.

The Resource Person for the workshop was Dr. Niyam Marchon, Professor, Teaching learning and Education Technology, State higher education council, Directorate of Higher Education. The workshop began with an introduction of the Resource Person by the compere Ms. Stesa Pereira.

Dr. Niyam commenced the session in an innovative and different way by distributing a questionnaire to all the teaching faculty to find out whether they are aware about Bloom’s taxonomy and the number of COs and POs of their respective courses and programme. Apart from this, the questionnaire also included questions related to innovative teaching methods used by the teachers. After collecting the questionnaire from the teachers, Dr. Niyam discussed about the meaning of certain terms like Multiple Intelligence. Multiple intelligence is a method adopted by the teachers to understand the type of the learners and to plan the course accordingly.

Dr. Niyam then explained about the term outcome-based learning and its various phases. He stated that at the pre-planning phase teachers should provide handouts to the students at the beginning of the course to make them aware about the syllabus, COs, LOs, Marks distribution, assignments etc. After the tea break, he reviewed COs of a few courses from different programmes to guide the teachers about the bloom’s taxonomy to be used while writing COs. He then discussed about various mapping matrices to show the correlation between COs and POs and COs and PSOs. He also explained about various graphs and other formulas. The session then concluded with the Vote of Thanks proposed by Dr. Edwin Barreto. The teacher Incharge of this activity was

Ms. Pooja Shanbhag, Asst. Prof in Commerce and Mrs. Sneha Prabhudessai, Asst. Prof Department of Computer Science.
